Gateway to Cancer
Discoveries

NAACCR 2016 Welcome

Dear friends and colleagues,

On behalf of the Board of Directors and Planning Committee, it is my pleasure to welcome you to St. Louis, Missouri – the Gateway City – and to the 2016 Annual Conference of the North American Association of Central Cancer Registries, Inc. (NAACCR).

This year's conference theme is "Gateway to Cancer Discoveries," with the goal of highlighting the ever-changing landscape of cancer surveillance and research activities while simultaneously exploring new directions and opportunities that enhance cancer surveillance. Plenary themes for this year are: "Gateway to Implementation and Results," "Gateway to Diversity," "Gateway to Information" and "Gateway to Scientific Discovery" as well as "Gateway to Patient Centeredness and Patient Perspectives."

The keynote address will focus on strategies for accelerating translation of research findings into cancer prevention that works. Plenary sessions will cover a wide range of topics, such as lung cancer screening guidelines and the impact on surveillance; diversity (American Indian and tribal populations; lesbian, gay, bi, and transgender populations); natural language processing – information to data; CDC perspective on the future of cancer surveillance; and how population-based cancer data influences palliative care and end-of-life decision-making.

The 2016 Conference is being held at the Hyatt Regency St. Louis at The Arch, situated on the St. Louis riverfront (the "Mighty Mississippi") and a short (7-10 minute) stroll to the iconic Gateway Arch, the Old Courthouse, the Old Cathedral (Basilica of St. Louis, King of France), Busch Stadium – home of the St. Louis Cardinals – and Ballpark Village. Other well-known attractions accessible by public transportation (MetroLink and MetroBus) include Forest Park (Saint Louis Art Museum, Missouri History Museum, Saint Louis Zoo), the Missouri Botanical Gardens ("Shaw's Garden" to locals), the spectacular Cathedral Basilica of St. Louis, and the historic Anheuser-Busch Brewery. In addition, a host of dining and entertainment venues are available in and around the hotel and further afield in one of St. Louis' historic neighborhoods – the chic Central West End, Soulard (oldest neighborhood), the Hill (Italian), Delmar Loop ("One of the 10 Great Streets in America"; Chuck Berry still performs at Blueberry Hill) and Downtown West, location of the National Historic Landmark St. Louis Union Station.

We would like to express our thanks to Venue West Conference Services for their excellent arrangements in all aspects of the Conference, to the dedicated NAACCR staff, as well as to colleagues and various organizers for their untiring help, support and advice in planning and arranging this meeting.

We hope that you enjoy the Conference and that your interaction with colleagues from many states, provinces, and territories will stimulate a creative exchange of ideas and will be personally rewarding. We also hope and trust that you will enjoy your visit to the exciting city of St. Louis and all it has to offer!

See you in St. Louis!

Jeannette Jackson-Thompson, MSPH, PhD
Chair, 2016 NAACCR Conference

Welcome to the 2016 NAACCR Annual Conference!

Let me begin by offering a hearty and well-deserved thank you to Dr. Jeannette Jackson-Thompson, her colleagues at the Missouri Cancer Registry and Research Center, and members of the 2016 NAACCR Annual Conference Program Committee for assembling a stellar agenda for this meeting.

As we planned this event over the past year, I was impressed with Dr. Jackson-Thompson's persistent efforts to make this Annual Conference a welcoming venue for students and junior investigators. Jeannette achieved her goal, as she usually does. The pre-conference workshop, Introduction to Cancer Surveillance Workshop for Students and Junior Investigators, will provide an opportunity to learn the nuts and bolts of cancer surveillance. This workshop will prepare students and other participants to more fully appreciate sessions that they will attend during the regular meeting. If you're a student, junior investigator, or are otherwise new to the organization, your experience here will also benefit from meeting and talking with others who are involved in this important work. Don't hesitate to introduce yourself to NAACCR members and ask lots of questions. If you're a seasoned member of NAACCR, take time to talk with students, junior investigators, and those new to the field and freely share your knowledge and expertise.

I encourage you to read through this program prior to the meeting. You'll find a rich - sometimes overwhelming - assortment of presentations relevant to cancer surveillance in the current era, including - but certainly not limited to - cancer in diverse populations, uses of information technology, and statistical and research methodologies. It may be a good idea to identify and prioritize those sessions of greatest interest to you so that you don't overlook something.

In my estimation, annual in-person meetings are more important than ever. I greatly appreciate the many benefits that my gadgets and information technology bring to the workplace. Nonetheless, I have never had a virtual encounter that came close to face-to-face engagement with my NAACCR friends and colleagues.

I encourage you to fully and actively participate in this meeting. Also take advantage of the many meeting-related events, including the reception, walks, bike tour, and professional baseball game. Also be sure to leave the hotel and experience this marvelous city. Go ahead and use your i-Thing to locate some interesting destinations, then stow that gadget and get out to sample the rich array of sights, sounds, smells, tastes, and feel of St. Louis.

This year's conference theme is "Gateway to Cancer Discoveries." Attendees will explore how data collected on virtually all cancer cases in North America form the basis for improving our understanding of cancer on every level. The keynote presentation will focus on strategies to accelerate translating research findings into cancer-prevention actions that work and are critical to improving patient health. Plenary sessions build on the gateway theme: Gateway to Results; ... to Implementation; ... to Diversity; ... to Information; ... to Scientific Discovery; and ... to Patient Centeredness and Patient Perspectives. The goal is to present multiple perspectives on cancer surveillance in North America and address potential future needs and directions.

MOBILE APPLICATION

In keeping with our green initiatives, NAACCR will be utilizing an application for smartphone and tablet users for the 2016 Annual Conference. This application uses Guidebook to offer you much of the same information as the physical program guide in a digital format (and some information not available in the program).

Please use the instructions below to download the guide to your mobile device.

Downloading Guidebook

1. Visit your device's app store or marketplace.
2. Search for "Guidebook" in your app store or marketplace.
3. Download and open the free Guidebook application.
4. Search for "NAACCR" using the search bar at the top of the screen.
5. Click on the "NAACCR 2016" guide in the results to download the guide.
6. Once the guide is downloaded, click on "NAACCR 2016" again to open the guide. You can click each of the sections of the guide to view different bits of information about the conference.
